ABOUT ORAL SEDATION

We offer oral sedation to help anxious patients feel calm and comfortable during dental treatment. Taken before your appointment, it can ease nerves while allowing you to remain relaxed and responsive, making it easier to get the care you need in a safe, stress-free environment.

SEDATION DENTISTRY

Nervous About the Dentist? We're Here to Help.

Whether you feel uneasy about dental treatment or have put off an appointment because of a past experience, you deserve care that feels supportive and respectful.

At Roseville Smiles, we welcome conversations about your concerns. Dr. Sri will explain your treatment, answer your questions, and discuss options to help you feel more comfortable.

Options for a More Relaxed Visit

Nitrous Oxide — "Laughing Gas"

Nitrous oxide is mixed with oxygen and inhaled through a small mask placed over your nose. It can help you feel calmer while you remain awake and able to respond. Its effects usually wear off quickly after it is stopped.

Oral Sedation

For suitable patients, prescribed oral medication may help reduce anxiety and promote relaxation. You may feel drowsy, and your experience will depend on the medication and your individual response. A responsible adult will need to accompany you and drive you home.

Care Planned Around You

Before recommending sedation, Dr. Sri will review your medical history, medications, treatment needs, and concerns. We will explain the benefits, risks, preparation, and recovery instructions for the recommended option.

If you have a disability, sensory sensitivity, or other support needs, please let us know so we can discuss appropriate accommodations.
